ROBERT J. SZABO TO LEAD PORT NETWORKS INSTALLATION DIVISION

Baltimore, MD – February 9, 2004 – As part of a recent expansion into the Voice Over Internet and Video Over Internet markets, local wireless network provider Port Networks has recruited Robert J. Szabo to lead the company's newly formed installation division.

Szabo, who most recently served as Sales Manager of the Silicon Valley Installation Company in Los Gatos, CA, brings a wealth of experience in home and business networking, electronics installation, and custom systems development. While president of Futuretainment, in San Jose, CA, Szabo was a pioneer in creating immersive entertainment environments using early PC technology and high-end electronics.

At Port Networks, Szabo will develop video and voice products for the home and business markets, oversee the company's installation teams, and ensure customer satisfaction as the company moves into new markets.

"We're tremendously lucky to have one of Silicon Valley's heavy hitters join our team," says Hugh Bethell, General Manager of Port Networks. "Bob has an incredible depth of knowledge of both current product lines and industry history, and we know his contributions will be invaluable as we enter new markets here in Baltimore."

Port Networks currently offers high-speed, wireless Internet service to homes, businesses, and people on the move around Baltimore's Inner Harbor. The company's Basic Wi-Fi is available for $4.95/day or $24.95/month.
